

MACHADO DECLARES STATE OF WAR IN CUBA; ROOSEVELT URGES END TO POLITICAL STRIFE

Food Dealers Ask Mayor To Approve Repeal Ordinance

Retail Concerns To Seek Relief Through NRA,
But Stress Desire To Cooperate in Campaign To Defeat Depression.

BIG MASS MEETING SET FOR TONIGHT

All Branches of Government, Business and Industry To Hear Addresses in City Auditorium.

Approval of the repeal of Atlanta's limitation of store hours was requested by Mayor James L. Key Wednesday night by retail food dealers on the eve of a hearing in which the mayor is to consider the repeal ordinance.

Answering rumors that the ordinance limiting food store hours of operation "was rushed through to enable us to violate NRA requirements,"
the food dealers sent to Mayor Key
a letter declaring that "it is our purpose to conform to the plan as finally declared." On approval of the repeal ordinance, the food dealers will seek relief within the NRA organization
"for a serious and unjust economic situation," and will, "of course, abide the decision of the NRA," the letter said.

Mass Meeting Plans Made.
Local enthusiasm in the NRA movement will gather intensity tonight in a mass meeting scheduled for the city auditorium. Citizens, employers, officials of the United States, state and city governments and others will meet to hear the recovery
drive discussed.

While plans were being formulated for the mammoth mass meeting, the Atlanta NRA campaign executive committee agreed that "differences between retail food dealers as to working hours should be solved in Washington in accordance with General Johnson's statement that the longer the working hours of business, the more employees will be added."

Pointing out that they have increased wages and added employees until they have wiped out margins of profit and are entering deficits in the hope that increased business under the influence of the recovery drive will make up the difference, the retail food dealers said that the greatest individual sufferer in going back to the long hours would be the store manager, and that some means of eliminating the difference should be found.

5 Naval Men Killed In Airplane Crash

HONOLULU, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Five
United States naval men were killed today and another was injured slightly by the crash of a twin-engine patrol plane on a coral reef a mile offshore.

The dead:
Lieutenant C. P. Hill, pilot; body
not recovered.

Lieutenant T. C. Marshall, pilot under instruction; body recovered.

Aviation Mate First-Class C. C. Costello, body not recovered.

Aviation Mate First-Class V. C. Covey, body not recovered.

Seaman First-Class L. B. Pitt, body
not recovered.

The plane was attached to the fleet
at base at Pearl Harbor.

The only occupant of the plane to escape death was H. A. Tuft, machinist's mate, second-class. He was slightly injured and was picked up and transferred to the Naval hospital at Pearl Harbor.

Tuft said the accident apparently was caused by tail surfaces of the plane coming off. He said the surfaces were stripped away, causing the raft to land on its back.

Tuft said Lieutenant Marshall, who was picked up dead, took to his parachute when control of the plane was lost.

Death Takes American Who Was First in War

BOSTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Harry Cushing Collins, 45, a Harvard graduate, said to be the first American to join the allied force in the World War, was found dead in his rooming house today. Death was attributed to heart trouble.

During his service in France with the Foreign Legion he married and his widow and three children survive.

JOHNSON SCORES HOUR SHORTENING BY RETAIL STORES

Recovery Administrator
Warns of Stern Discipline to Firms Avoiding Addition of Workers.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)— Speaking directly to retailers and grocers—but indirectly to all employers who covenant with President Roosevelt to increase employment—Hugh S. Johnson warned today that agreements must be fulfilled.

Turning momentarily from a hearing on a permanent code for the bituminous coal industry, the NRA
chief struck out at "misunderstandings" which he said had led to shortening of operating store hours instead of adding more employees.

Thousands more workers were brought within the scope of the presidential agreements meantime with approval by Johnson of modified wage and hour provisions for the petroleum and jewelry industries.

Becoming effective immediately, employers will receive the blue eagle upon their compliance and until permanent codes are prescribed by the NRA.

Dozens more temporary agreements for higher wages and shorter working hours for employees are to be promulgated soon in the administration's high-pressure campaign to bring virtually all of industry into line within a few weeks without awaiting the formal hearings preceding permanent codes.

Action on Strike.
While the administrator drove his general recovery program ahead and presided for a time over the coal hearing, he also took time to consider the Pennsylvania history strike.

Called together by Gerard Swope,
the chairman, the small off-shoot of the national labor board prescribed rules for the election of checkweighmen
in the mines. The decision of the arbiters was signed by Swope, George L. Berry and Louis E. Kirstein, the other members, and spokesmen said
both operators and miners said it would be recognized and obeyed by them.

Dr. Leo Wolman, acting chairman of the national board, has called a meeting for tomorrow to consider
the Pennsylvania history strike.

Other Offenses.
Johnson, for the second time in four days, warned retail and grocery store
operators that the intent of the recovery act to provide more employment would be defeated if they shortened hours of operation instead of adding more workers, adding:

"When employers sign this agreement, they are signing a contract to add workers."

Clark Howell Woodward Wins Distinguished Service Star

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—Secretary of the Navy Swanson today presented to Rear Admiral Clark Howell Woodward, of Atlanta, member of the general board of the U. S. navy, a gold star in lieu of a second distinguished service medal in recognition of service he rendered in supervising
the national elections in Nicaragua in 1932.

The citation accompanying the decoration, which was presented in behalf of President Roosevelt, reads:

"For exceptionally distinguished and meritorious service rendered the government as chairman of the United States electoral mission to Nicaragua
in the supervision of the Nicaraguan national elections in 1932. The difficult and delicate tasks assigned Rear Admiral Woodward were performed with the highest degree of judgment, patience, force and tact, and despite the many and serious obstacles the mission carried out an election conducted without notable disorder and with results accepted by the Nicaraguan congress, political leaders and the people. His successful conclusion has reflected great credit upon him
and the naval service."

In April 1932, Rear Admiral Woodward was attached to the office of the governor of the Panama canal and was on duty there until June 1931

when he was ordered to command cruiser division 3, scouting force. Admiral Woodward served as chairman of the U. S. electoral mission to Nic-ragua in the fall of 1932 with the rank of envoy extraordinary and minister plenipotentiary. He completed that duty in January 1933 and on January 28 assumed command of the special service squadron. He reported for duty with the general board, navy department, on June 30, 1933.

Rear Admiral Woodward was awarded the distinguished service medal on November 6, 1927, with the citation:

"For exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility
in the supervision of the Nicaraguan elections in 1932. The difficult and delicate tasks assigned Rear Admiral Woodward were performed with the highest degree of judgment, tact,
patience, and ability and were resulted in the successful conclusion of the national elections in Nicaragua in 1932."

He was also awarded the medal of merit by the president of Nicaragua
with the citation:

"For services in assisting the government of Nicaragua in re-establishing law and order in the conduct and supervision of a national election and in the maintenance of peace."

Slaughter in Havana's Streets as Soldiers Fired on Populace

BALBO AT LISBON; ONE FLYER KILLED

One of 24 Italian Seaplanes Cracks Up on Leaving Azores.

LISBON, Portugal, Aug. 9.—(UP)— Tragedy marred the return to the European continent today of the Italian air fleet, nearing the end of the most remarkable mass airplane flights
in the history of aviation.

One man was killed and three injured when one of the 24 giant seaplanes cracked up at the start outside the harbor at Ponta Del Gada, on the island of San Miguel, in the Azores.

The other 23 planes made the last phase of the daring trans-Atlantic formation cruise without incident and the fliers, giving a roaring welcome, slept in Lisbon tonight, saddened by the accident.

The man killed was Lieutenant C.
Sungalia, youthful reserve pilot of the seaplane I-Rani, piloted by Captain Ranieri. Captain Ranieri, Sergeant Mechanic Vremaschi and Sergeant Boveri, the other men in the plane, were only slightly bruised.

General Italo Balbo, air minister in command of the aerial armada,
wireless Premier Benito Mussolini that the accident was caused by "an error in maneuvering." He and the other 14 planes proceeded to Lisbon, arriving at 10:40 a. m. (eastern daylight time). They were joined by the three squadrons led by General Ando Velegrini, second in command of the mass flight, who had remained at Horta, in the Azores, last night.

The other fliers at Ponta Del Gada blamed the narrow harbor at that place for the fatal accident.

Both body sections of the seaplane were smashed when it started from the surface of the bay and then suddenly dropped back into the sea. The wings were intact. The wreckage is to be crated and shipped back to Italy.

The accident was the second tragedy
since the fliers left Orbetello, Italy,
last month on a flight to Chicago and return. Sergeant Quintanilla was killed when the I-Dini overturned on arrival at Amsterdam, the first stop on the long cruise.

General Balbo, after talking with Premier Mussolini at Rome by telephone, decided to proceed directly to Ostia, outside Rome, on the Tiber river Saturday morning.

FRENCH DISTANCE FLIERS
TO GET HANDSOME PRIZE
RAYAK, Syria, Aug. 9.—(AP)— Maurice and Paul Odos are due to receive a million francs from a grateful government for bringing the world
straight-line distance flight record to France.

The prize, which now is worth about $200,000, was won by the pair in a flight from Paris to Saigon in 1931.

Machado Places Last Hopes In Trained, Well-Paid Army

McGill Believes President's Policy in Regard to Military Was Shrewdly Conceived Against Just Such Crisis as Now Prevails.

(President Gerardo Machado, of Cuba, has declared a state of war in Cuba following the massacre of Monday in which government troops fired on the people in the streets. In this article, Ralph McGill, who recently returned from Cuba after interviewing Machado, Welles and others, tells of Machado's shrewd move in building up and handling his army.)

By RALPH MCGILL.
There is a cannon which booms
each night at 9 o'clock from Morro castle on Havana's harbor. It is a custom which dates back to the days of the old Spanish government.

When the cannon was fired no Spanish soldiers.

On Wednesday Gerardo Machado, dictator of Cuba, declares a state of war and after dark it will be dangerous on the streets for any but Cuban soldiers.

Most of the civilized world and more than 90 per cent of Cuba's population fears and hates Machado, declaring
there can be no peace and no order
in Cuba while he remains in power.

Also Shrewd.
Just as no one denies that the man is ruthless, cruel and fierce in his actions, just as no one denies that he is calculating and shrewd.

In the Latin American countries
so small that a relatively small army
can cover them completely, subdue
the people and kill and maim without interruption and often without discovery.

He knows that the very idea of intervention in Cuba is distasteful to the United States and possible intervention.

Atlanta Newspapers Accept Code

The Atlanta newspapers have accepted the newspaper
code filed at Washington by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, the Southern Newspaper Publishers Association and other associations representing newspapers
throughout this country and are putting the code into effect
Monday, August 14th, in furtherance of the President's program.

Presenting a united front in support of President Roosevelt's economic recovery program, the three Atlanta daily newspapers have accepted the newspaper code formulated by the American Newspaper Publishers Association and other regional associations in compliance with the suggestion of the National Industrial Recovery Administration in its plan of industrial rehabilitation.

Participation in the program has been undertaken cheerfully and in faith of its effectiveness by The Constitution,
The Atlanta Journal and the Georgian-American.

Cuban Executive Withholds Reply On Welles' Plan

Reconciliation Is Seen For Almee and David

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 9.—(AP)—
Friends of Almee Temple McPherson
Hutton, evangelist, and her husband, David L. Hutton, Jr., who has filed suit for divorce, said today the two may become reconciled.
The pair kept their own counsel
after an interview in a private dining room of a downtown hotel, but they emerged to the gaze of curious onlookers beaming.

Said Jerome Mayo, Hutton's lawyer: "The prospects are very bright for a reconciliation."

WELLES, FARRARA CONFER ON CRISIS

Military Decree Does Not Constitute Direct Answer to Request That Machado Give Up Post.

By the Associated Press.

President Gerardo Machado, whose resignation has been suggested as a means of bringing Cuban political turmoil to an end, late Wednesday declared a state of war throughout the island republic.

His object, as he described it, was to forestall "enemies of the public peace" who have been given an opportunity through the general strike
"to create a revolutionary state in the country."

President Roosevelt, vacationing at Hyde Park, N. Y., firmly called upon Cuba to end the political warfare "at the earliest possible moment" in the interests of preventing starvation and the preservation of economic well-fare.

Unofficially this was interpreted as a stand that political rule by force in the republic must cease.

The statement followed a conference with Secretary Cordell Hull, ambassador to Washington, who made a special trip to the summer presidential home. Returning to New York later the ambassador declared he was
"in complete accord with everything"

the American president "says and thinks" about the Cuban situation.

Meanwhile officials in the department of state today expressed "a deep concern at the turn of events
in Cuba, but stressed that mediation was preferred rather than intervention."

Secretary Cordell Hull, who has been engaged for some time in attempts to mediate the political difficulties.

STATE OF WAR DECLARED
BY PRESIDENT MACHADO.
HAVANA, Aug. 9.—(AP)—President Gerardo Machado, central figure in Cuba's volcanic political life, declared a state of war throughout the republic late today when he issued a military decree.

Welles, United States ambassador, and leaders of various parties awaited a reply to their demand that the president resign his office.

The general strike existing in Cuba, the presidential decree asserted, has given "enemies of the public peace" an opportunity to create a revolutionary state in the country.

SPAIN AND BRITAIN ASK U. S. TO HALT KILLINGS IN CUBA

Envoys Protest Destruction of Life, Property of Their Nationals in Strife-Torn Island.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(UP)—
Protests to Ambassador Sumner Welles in Havana by the British and Spanish envoys there against destruction of life and property of their nationals tonight intensified the state department's concern over the increasingly tense situation in Cuba.

Having failed to obtain protection for Spanish nationals from Cuban authorities, the Spanish ambassador in Havana complained to Welles that three of his countrymen had been killed and 60 imprisoned. The British minister, meanwhile, protested to Welles that British property was being destroyed in the interior of Cuba.

The plain implication of these protests, in the view of observers here,
was that European governments are holding the United States responsible for maintaining order in Cuba,
a responsibility it assumed under the Platt amendment.

Authoritative reports from Havana
said Cuban police were riding through prominent business streets
shooting indiscriminately at closed stores. A serious food shortage, raising the likelihood of raids on stores, was predicted.

So seriously did the state department view the situation that Secretary Hull conferred with President Roosevelt by telephone tonight. Afterward, Hull said Mr. Roosevelt would issue a statement on his consideration today with Cuban Ambassador Oscar Cintas.

Hull declined to discuss in detail the present status of Welles'
mediation efforts, but still appeared to believe there was a possibility that the Cuban political quarrel might be settled peacefully.

At the same time, it was admitted in official quarters that the Cuban situation was becoming graver.
Officials said the situation called for a speedy solution, but was still unwilling to speculate on the possibility of American armed intervention.

In the view of observers, however,
intervention has become more likely as a result of protests to Welles by foreign governments. Strictly interpreted, the Monroe Doctrine would not prevent a European power from using force in Latin America to protect the lives and property of its nationals, provided it did not attempt political control of the country or colonization.

Cook School Enters Third Day; Housekeepers Throng Theater

Only two more sessions of The Con-stitution's Ice and Gas Cooking School remain to be presented. Today and Friday mark the close of a successful four-day school in the art of cooking and preparing foods.

Mrs. Stafford will be introduced by Mrs. Robert K. Hambo, popular leader in both club and social circles in Georgia, and the third session will start promptly at 9 o'clock.

Doors of the Georgia theater will open promptly at 8 and until 8:30
those in attendance will be entertained by a musical program on the Georgia theater organ.

At 8:30 there will be another showing of new fall coats sponsored by The Mirror.

Wednesday Mrs. Stafford demonstrated to her audience many novel recipes and at the completion of each demonstration received hearty applause.

Another "capacity crowd" greeted Mrs. Stafford and an even larger attendance is expected the last two days of the school.

Following is the program given Wednesday:

"Pecan Pudding."
Four eggs, 1 pound pecans, 3 dozen macarons, 1 teaspoon cinnamon, juice
of 1-2 lemons, 1-2 cup sugar.

Cream egg yolks and sugar. Add other ingredients, folding in stiffly beaten eggs last. Bake in oiled pan in slow oven with pan sitting in another pan of water. Cook until pudding is set. Serve with whipped cream. This is nice for in advance dessert.

SOVIET REVIVES MOVE TOWARD COTTON DEAL

U. S. Looks to Russia as Only Outlet for Part of Surplus.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Renewed efforts to close a deal where-by Russia would purchase 1,000,000 bales of American cotton began today following an unexpectedly high government forecast of a 12,814,000-bale crop.

The Soviet representatives approached the Reconstruction Corporation recently with an offer to buy the approximately 1,000,000 bales if the corporation in turn would arrange to supply about $50,000,000 to finance the transaction.

The belief of farm adjustment administration officials and cotton trade representatives that Russia offers the only outlet for any considerable quantity of the formidable surplus of American cotton has quickened the attempt to clear away difficulties which have prevented consummation of the trade.

Also the various industrial and agricultural groups are considering setting up export organizations to which the Reconstruction Corporation could lend money to finance exports to Russia.

FOOD DEALERS ASK ORDINANCE REPEAL

August 9, 1933.
Hon. James L. Key,
Mayor,
City of Atlanta,
Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Sir:
This letter is addressed to you jointly by the Retail Grocers' Association, composed of those commonly known as the "Independents" and the undersigned chain grocery stores of the city of Atlanta. It relates to the recently passed ordinance limiting the hours for the sale of groceries in the city of Atlanta.

The afternoon papers quote General Johnson as construing the purposes of the NRA to the effect that hours of service to the public should not be reduced. We later comment on the fact that none of us could know of this purpose until General Johnson so announced it. It would, of course, be unfortunate for any conflict to exist between ordinances of the city of Atlanta and the declared policies of the NRA. This would be unfortunate to us also, because it would put us in the predicament of being forced to violate one or the other. Hence, in view of General Johnson's interview, we ask that you sign the ordinance repealing the one which created limitations of hours. Upon your signing this ordinance we will at once put the old hours of service to the public into effect. We will then immediately seek relief within the NRA organization for a serious and unjust economic situation and will, of course, abide the decision of the NRA.

In the meantime, however, there has been a great deal of public misconception of the whole controversy, and various rumors have done the food retailers serious injustice. We wish the public to know the truth about the matter. Hence we are making the following statements which we will give to the public:

1. We understand it has been widely said that the ordinance was rushed through to enable us to violate the NRA requirements.

The situation is simply this: The NRA blanket agreement provides that hours of public service shall not be cut below 52. It obviously contemplates, therefore, that some adjustment of hours of public service may be made but always above the minimum. The ordinance authorizes 59 1/2 hours of public service. This is 7 3/4 hours more than the minimum required by the NRA. Hence, the NRA agreement authorizes 7 1/2 less hours than is required by the ordinance.

We have seen a statement in Wednesday's papers from General Johnson that the NRA agreement does not authorize the reduction of hours for public service to a minimum of 52. If the NRA does not desire hours to be reduced at all, directions to that effect will, of course, be complied with by holders of the blue eagles; but when General Johnson states, if he did state, that a reduction of hours to not less than 52 for public service is a violation of the president's agreement, we were confused, since we really had the president's code as a guide and which we quote as follows: "Not to reduce the hours of any store or service operation to below 52 hours in any one week, unless such hours were less than 52 hours per week before July 1, 1933, and in the latter case not to reduce such hours at all."

It is our purpose to conform to the plan as finally declared, but it is wholly unfair and incorrect to say that the NRA agreement did not authorize a reduction of hours for public service provided the minimum was not violated. It is equally unfair and incorrect to say that its spirit prohibited this. Its spirit prohibited anything for which the agreement itself expressly provided. We are saying this not to take issue with General Johnson as to what he wishes, but to justify those who prior to his interview had acted on the faith of what the agreement actually said. There was no way we could know that it was intended to mean something different from what it said or that a change of policy had been undertaken which had not been announced and of which we had no information until Wednesday's paper.

We may add that if there has been such a change, as soon as the officials know the actual facts of the situation and the great injustice that is this doing store managers as hereinafter pointed out, we believe another change will be made to meet a more humane view of the situation.

2. It is said upon the streets that the ordinance was rushed through so that we would not be forced to increase the number of our employees. This is wholly untrue. On the contrary, we have increased substantially the number of employees in our stores since we signed the NRA agreement. Take some simple figures: Under the ordinance we keep open 59 1/2 hours. Under the NRA code for retail grocery stores no clerk can be worked more than 48 hours. Hence we are open 11 1/2 hours more per week than our clerks work per week. Necessarily, therefore, to comply with the code it was necessary for us to employ the extra clerks for this 11 1/2 hours per week. We have employed them and are paying them the rates provided by the NRA code. This is the truth in spite of all rumors on this subject.

3. The idea seems to have gotten out with a few people that the ordinance relieves us of raising rates of wages. We have never been able to understand how anyone supposed there was such a connection, but we have found that some people did think so. It is simply untrue. We pay in rates respect the rates of wages required by the code for our industry.

4. Our store managers, individual owners and proprietors are executives under the code. We have raised the wages of our managers to meet the minimum requirement for minor executives according to the code. This is in addition to the raises given clerks and is also in addition to the additional clerk hire. Our pay rolls have already been increased to the point that margins of profit have been wiped out and serious weekly deficits face us. We are, however, doing our part in the hope and belief that the general business recovery will enable us like others later to recoup our losses. From some sources, either the city government or the NRA, we are entitled in this situation to protection from unfair competition.

5. The greatest sufferer from an individual proposition in going back to the long hours would be the store manager. He must stay there through all the hours the store is open. It is impossible for his own standpoint for him to take time off with the store running, because he is responsible for the inventory and the management of the establishment. The clerks can be limited to their 48 hours a week regardless of how long stores stay open, and this limit, of course, will be enforced, but no such limit can or does apply to the store manager, and the great unfairness to him in the old situation is one thing which ought not to be overlooked.

6. If the present hours work an inconvenience to the public a rearrangement of them could be considered. In any such drastic changes that are taking place at the present time rough spots will develop which must be ironed out. Basically, however, retail grocery stores ought not to stay open over 60 hours a week. If they are forced to do so the owners of the stores will not perhaps suffer particularly, but managers will, and it is unjust to them.

Also, all retail grocery stores ought to keep open and close at the same time. One of our small stores ought not to be forced to close when a competitor operating his own store next door stays open. It is this type of unfair competition so far as hours are concerned that has heretofore forced more hours on our store managers than we wished to put on them, or than we will consent to put on them again without at least exhausting every effort in their behalf.

This type of unfair competition in the past has forced longer and longer hours and more and greater injustice upon managers and individual proprietors. Naturally there has been some inconvenience to the public, but we believe the public will be willing to recognize the necessity of shortening hours and would be willing to adjust itself to such change if it realized fully that its slight inconvenience in making the change was enabling numbers of managers to get back to a decent method of living.

We invite the attention of all fair-minded men to this statement of the situation.

Plans for a mass meeting reminiscent of World War days were completed at the executive committee meeting. Carter Poland, of Anniston, Ala., designated by the administration headquarters at Washington, will be the principal speaker.

Many Leaders to Attend.
On the stage when the meeting starts at 8 o'clock tonight at the city auditorium will be city and county officials and various leaders of business. Members and officials of the committee also will be on the platform.

It is expected that the large auditorium will be filled with people anxious to hear interpretations and outlines of the NRA program. WGST radio station will broadcast the speeches and descriptions of the crowd.

Robert F. Maddox, chairman of the campaign committee, will preside and in addition to Mr. Poland, speakers will include Congressman Robert Ramapoek, Mayor James L. Key, Ronald Ransom, Dr. Harvey W. Cox, Dr. T. J. Cauley, Postmaster E. K. Large, Lewis F. Gordon, A. Steve Nance, W. D. Laney, Mrs. J. K. Otley, Mrs. Max E. Land, who is chairman of the women's division of the campaign, and Miss Allie Mann. Efforts to obtain Senator Richard B. Russell Jr., as one of the speakers failed when it was learned he would be out of the city.

Madell Issue Statement.
Following the meeting of the executive committee, Chairman Maddox issued a statement saying "the question of hours and wages is entirely in the hands of General Johnson and the administration in Washington and all such matters should be decided there."

General Johnson in press dispatches was quoted as saying that it is clearly evident that the longer a store remains open each week, and the shorter number of hours each employee works, the greater the number who will be employed. The great underlying purpose of the president's plan is to increase wages and put more people to work.

In reply to Governor Talmadge's telegram concerning the Georgia NRA board dispatched Tuesday, General Johnson telegraphed the governor Wednesday that necessary information will follow immediately.

Adopting a suggestion made by Lewis Gordon, publicity director of the NRA campaign in Atlanta, the executive committee approved a plan whereby merchants will display blue eagle NRA flags in front of their stores in notches already placed in the sidewalks.

In the federal building, busy schemes continued Wednesday with throngs of people crowding the department of commerce offices to obtain information on the NRA agreements. A total of the pledges received showed that 390 employers signed Wednesday, affecting 1,503 employees. The figure brings the total to date to 14,426 signed employers, affecting 90,070 workers.

102 Compliance Certificates.
Certificates of compliance with the NRA voluntary agreement issued by Postmaster E. K. Large Wednesday totaled 102, which brought the total to date to 2,681. There are upward of 10,000 business establishments in Atlanta.

Referring to the NRA code, J. L. McCord, former president of the Retail Food Dealers Association, Wednesday said that "while the ordinance passed last week limiting hours of operation might have been a bit too drastic to start with, certain corrections should be made to serve all interests with equal justice."

Among the firms announcing Wednesday that they are complying with the NRA code were Swift and Company, General Foods Sales Company, and several smaller concerns.

In connection with the NRA campaign, Arthur C. Bromberg, Atlanta film distributor, was in New York Wednesday for a meeting of the independent film distributors in regard to adoption of a code.

Following reports that certain employers were failing to live up to their agreements on the NRA code, DeKalb citizens called a meeting for 7:30 o'clock tonight at the DeKalb courthouse to lay plans for investigating business houses displaying the "Blue Eagle."

Praising the manner in which the Chamber of Commerce has handled the NRA campaign, Brice M. Mace Jr., special agent of the bureau of foreign and domestic affairs in Washington, visited Atlanta Wednesday on a tour of southern cities.

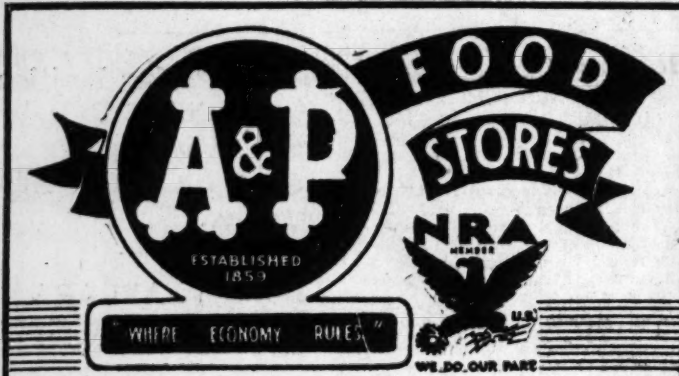

ATLANTA PHOTO ENGRAVERS
ALL JOIN NRA CODE

Every photographer in Atlanta has joined the NRA 100 per cent by signing the blanket code, pending the approval of their own code now under consideration in Washington, having been presented by the American Photoengraving Association. All engraving concerns in Atlanta are members of the national association. No increase in the basic prices for engraving will be put into effect. Atlanta at this time, a representative of the Atlanta photoengravers at Wednesday. There will be a discussion of excessive discounts from the scale which have been customary in this city, however, it was announced.

HEAD OF CLEANERS, DYERS
TO SPEAK HERE FRIDAY
Ending a 6,000-mile air tour in the interest of the NRA, J. R. Ridd, president of the National Association of Cleaners and Dyers, and N. Harkness, his assistant, will arrive in Atlanta today to speak on the code at the meeting to be held by the south at the Ansley hotel roof. The meeting will be open to all in the industry, it was said.

"A FREAK REDUCING FAD ALMOST RUINED MY HEALTH"

I looked perfectly ghastly..
I was dieting, following one of those freak reducing fads. True, I was losing weight, but at what a price! My color was sallow, my skin drawn and lifeless. I was on the verge of a complete breakdown. With dizzy spells, heart palpitation, energy gone, I was headed for a serious collapse..

Until I met Mary..
My husband's sister, a graduate nurse, told me I was crazy. "Dieting," she said, "doesn't mean starving yourself to death. Calories make weight. Be sensible and substitute Welch's Pasteurized Grape Juice for high calorie foods. Then you'll lose weight, but keep healthy."

I couldn't believe her..
"But Welch's Grape Juice is sweet and sweets are fattening," I said. "Not always," she replied. "Welch's simple grape sugars are quickly absorbed and used, and hence not stored as fat. Besides, its potassium tends to remove unnecessary water from the body's tissue."

the Welch way to weight control

The Welch Way is quite the most pleasant reducing method known. Physicians endorse it because Welch's satisfies that craving for sweets and rich, fattening foods. Taken in connection with proper diet, fat disappears, energy increases. People everywhere report that the Welch Way to Weight Control has made them more vigorous and alert than they had felt in years.

Start right in today. Get a bottle of Welch's from your dealer; drink a glass before breakfast, once or twice during the day, and before retiring. Because of its purity, Welch's may be diluted with one-third water, and many prefer it so. Continue—and in a few days you will experience the wonderful difference.

Just look at me now..
I bought Welch's, drank it freely. Following the Welch Way to Weight Control was simple and easy. I lost pound after pound and never felt better in my life. Today my weight is normal, my figure girlishly slender. Why don't you try the "Welch Way to Weight Control" too?

IMPORTANT: Be sure to insist on Welch's, because it is the Welch Process that retains in the bottled juice the healthful properties of ripe grapes so essential to the system. Only Welch's is Certified-Pure and Pasteurized. It contains no adulterants, no synthetic flavors, no artificial coloring, no preservatives, no water, and no tartaric acid crystals. Lowest price in 35 years.

FREE! Mail coupon for booklet, "Keeping Your Weight Down." It tells how Welch's helps amazingly to restore rosy cheeks and buoyant energy to run down, anemic children.

Why is it a joke? —this forerunner of disease?

AMONG certain people there is always something funny or ludicrous about the subject of constipation or laxatives. This idea has really stood in the way of a proper understanding of the seriousness of the whole matter. Yet constipation is the forerunner of many serious diseases.

Knowing the seriousness, would you just in an off-hand way take "any kind of laxative" in such a case?

Of course you would not. You would want the best laxative in existence, and the most scientific. You would not be misled by mere taste. It is easy enough to give a laxative a sweet taste, but there is more to the matter than that!

If you want to avoid the danger of harsh concentrated action then your laxative must be thoroughly distributed through the intestines. That is what makes Feen-a-mint so different from ordinary laxatives. Instead of taking a solid mass into the system, you chew the laxative into the saliva, and then let the saliva take charge of it from then on. That is the latest laxative invention, and it is called Feen-a-mint.

Feen-a-mint is pleasant to chew and your doctor will tell you it is safe for old and young. No increase in dosage. No griping. No "low" feeling afterwards. Non-habit-forming and economical. Every druggist knows it and every druggist has it.

ARIZONA VOTERS BACK REPEAL, 3-1

21st State Ratifies and Wets Rush on Toward Ultimate Goal.

By the Associated Press.
The tide of prohibition repeal, having overwhelmed physically arid Arizona, swept toward Missouri last night with its advocates ostensibly in sight of their goal.
Repeal elections yet to be held this year in 18 states will bring the total voting to 37. That is one more than the 36 required to repeal the eighteenth amendment, should all favor the measure supported by the national administration.
Arizona's margin of three to one in Tuesday's referendum made it the twenty-first state to express opposition to the liquor control amendment. Not one has favored retention.
Missouri, where prohibition forces did not put forward slates of delegates at many recent precinct meetings, votes August 10. Texas, which last year was prohibited two to one for submission of prohibition to the people, follows August 28. Washington

Stafford. Mrs. Rambo is regent of the Joseph Habersham chapter, D. A. R., and a former director for Georgia in the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

winds up the August elections with a vote on the 29th.

Through action of the Colorado legislature this week its citizens will express their sentiment September 12, electing delegates to a convention September 26. Formal proclamations have not been issued in Colorado or Utah—scheduled to vote November 7—but these are considered certain to be forthcoming.

Other states to vote in September are Vermont, Maine, Maryland, Minnesota, Idaho and New Mexico. Florida will be at the polls October 10 and the Carolinas, Pennsylvania, Utah and Ohio will vote November 7, completing, under present arrangements, this year's balloting upon the twenty-first or repeal amendment.

An election after December 5 has been authorized in Oklahoma, but it is likely to be postponed until next year.

TAMPA CIGAR MAKERS STAGE NRA WALKOUT

TAMPA, Fla., Aug. 9.—(AP)—Until Tampa cigar manufacturers obtain the Blue Eagle of the NRA members of the local independent union of the industry will not return to work, they voted at a meeting last night.

The walkout was voted effective for today. There are between 8,000 and 10,000 cigar workers here and Fernando Alvarez, of New York, described as a representative of the New York Tobacco Workers' Union, said the local group had been in communication with others at Boston, Philadelphia, Chicago and New Jersey and believed their action would be followed in those places.

The movement here was not referred to as a strike and no violence was expected.

ROOSEVELT STUDIES MANAGED CURRENCY

Rise in Prices and Purchasing Power Found Satisfactory.

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Aug. 9.—(AP) President Roosevelt intently scanned his monetary charts today and found satisfactory the rise in prices and purchasing power which he intends to keep closely managed to avoid the peaks and valleys of violent fluctuations.

He intensified his studies for a managed currency in conference with Secretary Woodin and Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale. He pronounced satisfactory the progress so far for higher levels which he believes have been reached without material increase in the cost of living.

The roll of charts prepared by monetary experts show that prices have advanced to about the level of 1910 to 1914. The goal is a higher level than prevailed somewhere between 1924 and 1926.

What, if anything, is going to be done to maintain the gradual upward swing was not indicated. It was made quite emphatic, however, that Mr. Roosevelt intends to keep a close grasp on the national upward pull to avoid undue swings in either direction.

The most pleasing thing revealed by the charts is that employment has increased recently, together with the rise in prices. Also the commodities which fell farthest during the decline have increased the most rapidly in price, particularly farm prices. The cost of the distribution of food also has decreased.

Adams in Washington For Leaf Price Aid

Commissioner of Agriculture G. C. Adams arrived in Washington Wednesday to confer with government officials on prices being paid tobacco growers of south Georgia.

The commissioner came to see Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, the administrator of the farm relief act, found the secretary still in the south and not expected until tomorrow.

Mr. Adams remained there and hopes to see the secretary immediately on his return.

By H. A. CARTER

MEANDERINGS OF A MOUSE.

A white-footed mouse that I brought back from Rabun county in a cheese box gnawed his way to freedom the afternoon that he arrived at my home. I discovered his escape about 6 o'clock and went out to dinner without looking for him at all. Returning about 10-11 found that the mouse was still among the missing, but I remembered that the only nest that he could possibly find was the cotton in the box itself. So I sat me down to read a while, half expecting to see the animal return.

In about 30 minutes I heard the flick-flick-flick of tiny claws on the floor of the hall, and looked up to see the runaway scampering down the floor toward me. I scarcely breathed while the dainty little creature went directly to a card table that was leaning against the wall, ran up the leg and jumped a few inches to the top of my desk. Here he sat for a moment, looking over the room, and then ran to the box and entered through the same hole that he had left by. Then I moved! I put the door of a cage at the box and chased my little captive into his new home and watched him, oblivious of time, for about two hours.

For the first quarter of an hour he was motionless. I put an apple in the cage for him and about five minutes later he began to gnaw at it. He ate for a while and then I snapped my fingers. He froze again for five minutes.

ates, and resumed his eating. Repetition of this finger snapping soon taught the mouse that the sound meant nothing dangerous, and it took a smart

clap of the hands to bother him again. After his meal he very carefully washed his paws and cleaned his fur. He even cleaned and brushed his tail, holding it in his forepaws as I would hold a rope. After he had made a tour of exploration to find a place to sleep I put his cotton in the cage, and he promptly made a nest, curling into a little ball for his nap.

Peromyscus will make a nice pet. With a wheel in the cage for him to run on for exercise, and plenty of food and water, he will have a happy home and I will learn a lot of the mannerisms of the white-footed mouse.

Tomorrow: Salamanders from Rabun.

WORKS PROGRAM AWAITS ENGINEER

Fulton Approves $3,000,000 Loan for Sewer and Road Projects

The launching of the federal public works program in Georgia will go forward immediately after the appointment of a consulting engineer by Washington authorities, the Georgia advisory commission made it known Wednesday following a meeting at which the first projects submitted to the board for its approval were taken up and considered.

The board met at its new offices at 710 Citizens & Southern Bank building. It announced the appointment of General Charles H. Cox, former adjutant general of the state, as its executive secretary, and for the first time conferred with Henry T. McIntosh, Albany editor, who is regional advisor for the southeastern states. Senator Richard B. Russell Jr. also sat in on part of Wednesday's session.

Meanwhile the Fulton county commission completed its public works program by authorizing requests for loans of approximately $3,000,000 for street improvements and other projects.

Cox Begins Duties.
General Cox has begun his duties and will meet with the board again today when other projects will be considered.

It is expected that the engineer will be appointed by Washington authorities in a day or two.

The board, in an official announcement from Thomas J. Hamilton, chairman, announced Wednesday that first attention would be given to health and sewage projects because of the prevalence given these projects under the national recovery act under which the board is operating.

The Fulton county commission, in special session Wednesday afternoon, asked more than $3,000,000 of the federal government for road improvements in various sections of the county and for sewer facilities for the northern section of the county.

A total of $2,678,000 was sought for roads covering every section of the county and approximately $250,000 is asked for sewer needs to supplement requests already made by Atlanta for sewerage improvements.

William A. Hansell, assistant city chief of construction in charge of sewers, and Ralph Farr, acting county attorney, were instructed by the board to prepare forms for immediate filing with the commission.

Every major road in the county is included on the improvement program. Recappings, extensions, widenings and general paving are included.

List of Road Projects.
Included among the roads slated for improving are:

Piedmont, Adamsville, McDonough, Campbellton, McVernon, Chambers, Cambridge, Dauphin, Decker, Lenox, Grand, Herschel, Jefferson, Long Island, Normandy, Sylvan, Wesley, Collier, Simpson, South Pryor, Barge, Fulton, Hogan, House, Hightower, Hanf, Lindeberg, Mt. Gilad, Morasco, Wieuca, Payne, Old Bolton, Roberts, South College, Rockdale, Stone, White, West Virginia, West John Calvin, Cash, Tell, Brown Mill, Cleveland, Fairburn, Bolton, Old Wieuca, Goodwin, Cheshire Bridge, Spalding, Lawrenceville, Highland extension and Redwine.

A committee from the Fifth Club of Buckhead, headed by J. Schley Thompson, H. C. Spratt, Willis Davis and W. A. Brand urged immediate action on the sewer projects. It promised every co-operation possible.

Victim's Plan To Remarry Seen as Poison Death Factor

GREENWOOD, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP)—District Attorney Arthur Jordan was working today on the theory that plans of Dr. John Preston Kennedy to remarry his divorced wife provided a motive for his poisoning with a deadly drug that affected the kidneys.

Dr. Sarah Ruth Dean, 33-year-old woman specialist in children's diseases and former clinical associate of Dr. Kennedy, was being held in the Greenwood jail charged with murder on the basis of a death-bed statement of the dying doctor.

Since the doctor's death Sunday, 10 days after he said she had been given poison by the woman doctor in a glass of whisky in her home, the district attorney has been assembling witnesses and other evidence to lay before the court at a preliminary hearing, probably next week.

Until the preliminary hearing, the laws of Mississippi require that she remain in jail without bail. Since her arrest, Dr. Dean has refused flatly to discuss the case, referring all inquiries to her attorney.

Berry Chandler, of West Point, cousin of Dr. Kennedy's divorced wife, said today they had set the date of their remarriage that would have been 15 days from the day the doctor was poisoned. The couple had planned to remarry and provide a home for their daughter.

On his death bed, Dr. Kennedy was quoted as saying he had called on Dr. Dean at her home, which she shared with an aunt, and that in drinking whisky from a glass he recognized the metallic taste of the poison.

He left the home, he said, and attempted to rid himself of the poison and for five days he tried to use his own knowledge of medicine to check the ravages of the drug. Realizing his treatment was not a success, he said, he called in other physicians, who sent him to a Jackson hospital, where he died 10 days after drinking the poison.

Dr. Kennedy was born in Digo in Simpson county, Mississippi, in 1892 and received a doctor's degree from the Memphis Hospital Medical College and took a special course in the New York Post-Graduate Medical School and Hospital. He was a first lieutenant in the medical corps during the war. In 1924 he married Miss Bessie Barry Brunson, of West Point. They were divorced last spring but relatives said Mrs. Kennedy had refused to say why she divorced her husband.

YOUTH CONFESSES MURDER OF BAILY

Slayer of Prominent Cincinnati Captured in Meridian, Mississippi.

MERIDIAN, Miss., Aug. 9.—(AP)—After hours of questioning, District Attorney Aubert Dunn announced tonight that a Cincinnati youth who gave the name of John J. Henkle and his age as 20, had confessed the slaying last Sunday night of Oliver S. Baily, a socially prominent Cincinnati, in the Ohio city.

Henkle was arrested here last night at a gasoline service station after the station attendant had become suspicious over his driving an expensive automobile while shabbily dressed and using profane conversation.

Cincinnati officers came here today by airplane, obtained the confession and sent the prisoner to Cincinnati late in the day in the custody of Detective William Cleary, of Cincinnati.

Defiant throughout, the youth greeted the officers in his cell in the city jail with "What . . . do you guys want? You ain't got nothing on me." Presented with clothes assertedly worn by Baily when last seen Sunday, and unable to explain bloodstains on his (Henkle's) underclothing and a spitch on the left door of the car, he finally unraveled a gruesome story of events leading up to the fight, which he said resulted in Baily's death.

Henkle told the officers he did not know how badly Baily was hurt when he fled from the scene of the struggle.

U. S. Bonds Refused, Home's Sale Halted

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, in Fulton superior court Wednesday, took steps to halt the foreclosure and sale of a home by an insurance company which holds a mortgage on the property, and which the owners claim, refuses to accept government home loan bonds in exchange for the mortgage.

M. Kunsberg and Johanna Kunsberg, the owners of the property, through their attorneys, Earl M. Carman and George F. Fielding, petitioned Judge Pomeroy Wednesday, and the judge signed an order calling on the Travelers Insurance Company to show cause why an injunction restraining the sale should not be granted. The hearing is set for 9:30 o'clock next Saturday morning.

The company, it is alleged, had advertised that it would sell the home to the highest bidder on August 22.

NEW ORLEANS, La., Aug. 9.—(UP)—Senator Huey P. Long's political enemies won a sweeping victory in criminal district court today when Judge Frank Echezal granted their request for a recount in open court of all 262 New Orleans ballot boxes used in last November's general election.

The recount was requested by District Attorney Eugene Stanley, who was accompanied to court by representatives of the Honest Election League, and the state and city bar association.

SHERIFF IS STRUCK BY HIT-RUN DRIVER

Fulton county police Wednesday were searching for a hit-and-run driver whose car struck Deputy Sheriff W. M. Brown, of Clayton county, and Andy Rape, 21, a truck passenger, on Jonesboro road early Wednesday morning, seriously injuring Rape.

Sheriff W. M. Adamson, who narrowly escaped being hit by the car, reported that he fired at the automobile in an effort to make the driver stop. Rape is in Grady hospital.

Sheriff Adamson said that he was returning to Clayton county with Brown when a tire blew out, and Rape came over and gave assistance in changing the tire.

THE WORLD'S WINDOW

BY PIERRE VAN PASSEN.

Building Roads.

Now that the burrows and the shuttles are drying down in the rich and seven or eight million unemployed are anxiously awaiting the long-announced moment when they shall be given roads and highways. The Hitler government commences its first large-scale enterprise to put an end to the situation of the workless. Germany is going to build roads, not ordinary roads, big, wide autostrades, like the one Mussolini constructed from Rome to Civita Vecchia. The roads will be made of reinforced concrete.

In "France Militaire," a monthly published by the French general staff a study of the road project in the Reich is published and the conclusion reached that the new road system of which German commerce has no need at all, is destined to be a new strategic system for the rapid transfer of troops to the frontiers, and not only troops but mechanized material as well.

"The more one studies the plans and projects of the German chancellors, the more one sees that they are playing for time. He concludes a four-power pact, which is said to guarantee the peace of Europe for 10 years. But in the meantime he clamors for airplanes and has begun to construct them. He lays down a network of roads. Heavy industry is picking up slightly in the Reich, which means that the steel plants have some orders. What are the orders? We do not know, but we can guess. Sixty thousand men are at work constructing the new roads. The war which Krupp had in stock at the close of the war and which was evacuated to Holland."

So talks the leading military paper of France. It doesn't sound encouraging.

The Desert Island.

We have all dwelled on desert islands, in the spirit at least, when we were young. The point about the desert island of our imagination, whether inspired by reading Robinson Crusoe or stories of pirate lairs, was that we had to become self-supporting. We had to learn to live in a number of strange and delightful ways. They were delightful chiefly because they were strange. We never hesitated for a moment. We found leaves at once from which clothes could be made. We lived on coconuts, or on bread made with coconut fiber, unless perchance we found a needle and thread fortunately thrown up from the wreck of a ship on gulls' nests. We wrote letters with octopus ink and didn't worry about the postman, nor about stamps. We managed to survive by our ingenuity.

Desert islands of the imagination had this advantage, too: they supplied an unusual amount of raw material which could be converted to immediate use. As desert islands were conveniently located in the hot zone, or certainly within the influence of the mid gulf stream and certainly never in the Arctic regions—how unpleasant that!—they could be used by Daniel Defoe's singular hero, can be done by us, they seem to figure, all proportions taken into account. What is to prevent a lot of people from growing their own wheat, people who are at present without work, these economists say, and they should build a communal oven and bake their own bread—aye—and build their own houses. There is lots of clay. On a desert island it would go, such a scheme. But would it go in present-day society? Can you hear the hoarse of the baker and the bricklayers and all the other established trades? We can't go back to the primitive stages. The world's economy develops, goes ahead, from step to step. It forges its own system, according to the need of man. The next stage will be the corporate state, in which the state is supreme and regulates everything. It's the end of the era of individualism. ## Health Talks

BY DR. WILLIAM BRADY

MEET A MODERN PHILOSOPHER.

A man from the hills breezes in and occupies the pulpit today, friends: Dear Dr. Brady:

I wish to take exception to your rather one-sided views on the subject of the philosopher's life. I believe it is high time that the male of the species be given an equal break, and both to the help of the philosopher and to their own moral delinquency, for the benefit of better moral standards. As I see it, and no doubt untold others, the present "accepted" theory of the philosopher is only at the man's door out of date, if it ever was just and proper. Your correspondent A. A. P. is perfectly right if he assumes the philosopher should have a thorough physical examination just as well as the bridegroom. Is she not mother of the children to come? No responsible woman should shirk the duty to establish her fitness for marriage life and motherhood. There is no doubt that a philosopher and a decent woman need have no fear of the physician's examination. This is a point the man should absolutely ignore before marriage and the law should take full cognizance of it. It does not help matters in the least to ignore well-known obvious facts and to persist in an ostrich-like, absurd, and stupid attitude. There are without question just as many decent men as women, and to pamper either sex while shifting the blame onto the other can only do harm.

Equal rights, equal responsibilities. No sense to hush things up and be partial to either sex. A man owes some loyalty to his own sex, even though it profits him with the other sex to take the chivalrous attitude. There is not and has not been for at least 15 years a "double standard." Our "high culture," or standards of life and modern theories, the lack of opportunity to mate early in life and establish a home, are responsible for the rather loose and lowered moral standards of the day.

In other words, a man's blood has not turned white, neither in man nor woman, and if moral conditions are not ideal, they indicate a revolt against repression of normal sex life and the handicaps of modern existence. All these things you should know. Dr. Brady, so please let us face the facts and deal with them in a fair, impartial manner.

Very truly yours,
Our friend says a mouthful, and the question I have heard, and I have heard a good many. The very first health talk I gave in this column, before some of our most esteemed readers were born, was a plea to the patient or guardian to withhold approval of an engagement of the young woman until the suitor has presented his health certificate, and a suggestion to

News Behind the News

By Paul Mallon.

BOOTING WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—President Machado does not know what hit him, but Summer Welles does. If you want the inside on that, take a look at the toe of the boot on our American ambassador to Cuba. You will find a pin there. It is the same one which pricked the Cuban despot.

Of course it will be plausibly denied now. Our government has a rule not to interfere with ruling sovereigns. That rule cannot be broken publicly. But private exceptions have been made. An exception was never made in a better cause than the current one.

UNDERMINING The truth seems to be that President Roosevelt desired to straighten out the Cuban mess immediately after his inauguration. That is why he switched a first-class man like Welles from the little cabinet to an apparently minor ambassadorship.

No preconceived notions were then harbored about Machado. Administration officials did not like his ways but they would have played ball with him.

A few weeks after Welles arrived in Cuba, he found it could not be done. He advised officials here confidentially of that fact. Machado heard about it and tried to undermine Welles. He tried to get Welles in bad with Mr. Roosevelt.

That simplified the problem. It showed Washington officials all they wanted to know. They realized Cuba needed liberalizing now more than before the Spanish-American War.

This does not mean we fomented the revolutionary spirit of Cuba or had anything to do with disturbances. Our officials are not so stupid as to get involved in anything like that.

Rather, they just let nature take its course. They may have helped nature here and there, indirectly, but never in any reprehensible way. Sometimes more can be accomplished by passive inaction than by intervention.

It was a beautiful inside job. Everyone but Machado will applaud it.

APPRAISAL After Machado, the two most powerful political men in Cuba are State Secretary Orestes Ferrara and Public Works Minister Carlos Miguel Cespedes. Insiders here rate them thus: Ferrara—Has the disposition of a top sergeant of marines. Personally ambitious; not very popular in Cuba because of his Italian birth; very efficient; would not mourn the passing of Machado or play with him after he is gone. Cespedes—A Machado henchman; raised in the Machado school; more popular than Ferrara with the Cuban rank and file; capable; probably would forget Machado after he has been gone a week.

TRICKS Diplomats here chuckled in their sleeves when they found the Haitian understanding recently signed at Port Au Prince was an "executive agreement," not a treaty. The joke is on the Haitian senate.

We negotiated a regular treaty with Haiti some time back. It included just about the same things as the current executive agreement. Financial arrangements were somewhat more strict, but not much. The marines were to get out January 1, 1935, instead of October 1, 1934, as now provided. The Haitian senate declined to ratify the treaty. Indeed it indicated clearly it would not ratify any similar treaty. No treaty can go into effect without senate ratification. Executive agreements can.

REBUILDING This latest agreement means the senate can argue itself blue in the face without effect. The fact that treaties previously ratified by the senate are altered by the agreement makes no difference. There is no criticism of this in any quarter here. Everyone seems to realize that the Haitian senate is somewhat like our own. It does not always do what is best for the Haitian people.

The agreement will have a good effect throughout Latin America. The administration is rebuilding its bridges in that part of the world. The agreement will have a good effect throughout Latin America. The administration is rebuilding its bridges in that part of the world.

CONFLICT Those who listened in on Mr. Roosevelt's recent Hyde Park conference with his monetary advisers say it sounded like a congressional debate.

Apparently the Professors Rodgers and Warren and James Warburg were of three different opinions. Wall Street thought it meant early inflation and sent the market up. They later received private word that Mr. Roosevelt was not ready to shoot yet.

NOTES Wherever you see any of our diplomatic officials these days, they say: "Isn't it too bad about Machado?" Then they smirk.

Senator Hiram Johnson has not sought any patronage, but recently another senator obtained Johnson's signature indorsing a certain California woman for a job. When the indorsement reached Mr. Roosevelt's desk, he noted Johnson's signature and said: "That is a very good recommendation." The appointment was made.

Physical endurance is a qualification for government office now. Candidates are regarded from the standpoint of whether they can report 20 hours a day and stand the gate. General Johnson cannot go on like that indefinitely. Woodin crumpled early. Observers are debating the possibilities that serious errors in judgment will develop from fatigue of perspiring officials.

One government bureau has a confidential questionnaire it sends around to check on the availability of applicants for jobs. One of the questions is: "To what extent, if any, in what way would his wife or other family be an asset or liability?" (Copyright, 1933, for The Constitution.)

Would the Highway be More Useful To You If You Called It Your Own?

By Robert Quillen

The desire to own property is a product of an artificial civilization. The wild creatures have some sense of property rights. They will fight to protect their feed or keep their mates. And man, in a natural state, did so.

But men were wanderers when the race was young, and ages passed before they settled in permanent abodes and learned to think in terms of property ownership.

When the first shelter was built, the builder had a right to say: "This is mine." He was rightful owner of the thing his labor had created. And when another man worked for a token of value called money and exchanged it for a shelter, his title of ownership was also clear and just.

But what was the motive that prompted these men to desire unquestioned ownership? It was a desire for security—nothing more. It was a natural and reasonable desire and nothing to man's discredit. Is there any other reason why man should desire to call property his own? None except greed and the lust for power and the desire to seem greater than other men.

If the rules of society guaranteed every man's security, so that none could suffer for want of anything, what reason would remain for ownership except reasons that discredit the race?

Despite our countless laws designed to protect property rights, the earth still belongs to everybody, as in the beginning, and ownership of real property is an illusion.

However, if you pay for the right to call a property your own, you have a lifetime tenure. You are a tenant, paying rent to society in the form of a tax. And your "ownership" is merely the right to use, which any renter could obtain.

Highways, bridges, parks and schools now "belong" to all. And tax money provides better service than toll charges once did. When the world is wiser, and security replaces fear, there will be no desire to own things.

Mercury Hits 91, 92 Expected Today

Ninety-degree heat returned to Atlanta Wednesday afternoon and is due to repeat today, according to Forecaster George W. Mindling. The temperature was 92 at 3 o'clock Wednesday and the same one hour later. The minimum, 72, was recorded at 7 o'clock in the morning.

The temperature range is expected to be 72 and 92 degrees today. Mr. Mindling said that today would be partly cloudy with showers as a possibility this afternoon.

The young man to obtain and offer his certificate to the parent or guardian when he seeks such consent or approval. My observation is that parents and guardians generally shrink their duty in this, as in other things pertaining to the happiness of children. Perhaps, after all, the problem of providing a certificate of fitness for marriage is best left to the mutual consideration of the man and woman who are vitally concerned.

Atlanta To Take Care of Share of Unfortunates, U. S. Officials Told.

Mayor James L. Key and members of the benevolence and pensions committee of council, Wednesday afternoon told Alan Johnston, of the federal emergency relief administration, that Atlanta will assume its "full duty in aiding unfortunates here."

Johnston, a South Carolinian, but working directly under Washington relief officials, and Ronald Ransom and Steve Rance, of the Georgia relief commission, met with the city committee at the city hall.

It was explained that under the relief administration, funds expended for relief are outright gifts, and that the federal government insists that those receiving aid are victims of the depression and are temporarily out of work. Those who are indigent, and unemployed are charges of the various governments and no federal aid can be expected for them, it was said.

The test, Ransom told the joint meeting, "is whether the subject is a casualty of the depression or whether he is a casualty of life."

The federal government wants to help rehabilitate those who because of the force of circumstances have been unable to find employment. Johnston said he could not assume under the acts of congress making the money available, to attempt to care for those persons who because of ill health or age are unemployed.

Key and Ransom assured the state committee and Johnston that Atlanta will do its full duty in the matter.

It was estimated that at least $3,000 a month must be provided by the municipality to meet the demands which will be made upon it. So far this year about $1,000,000 has been expended directly from the municipal treasury for relief purposes.

ment with their president after reading section eight, no one could help but see about staggering employee hours, enforcing rest periods, and increasing the time for lunch without pay, either directly or indirectly, to defend the very purpose of the agreement by materially shortening the number of hours which the stores had customarily stayed open.

The administration pointed out that the actual agreement provided that operating hours should not be reduced below 52, unless they had been reduced before July 1, the actual date of the agreement was that there should be no shortening whatsoever. Stores were expected to take on additional help to continue operation.

"The agreement is a solemn covenant and its purpose is explicit," Johnson said. "The owners of the stores and the customers who buy from them should have no quarrel with this purpose, which is to carry out this specific provision which has to do with re-employment through reducing the number of hours each employee works and by keeping the stores open as long as possible."

Other Codes. In addition to giving effectiveness to the wage and hour provisions of codes for the jewelry and oil business—the latter having to do with thousands of workers employed in producing, refining and actually retailing the product—the administration received proposed codes for the laundry, hat, and dry cleaning machinery manufacturing industries.

More than 1,000 codes from various industries—many of them covering the same groups—are now before the administration and the intention is to describe by officials, to put the wage and hour provisions of all into effect as soon as they can be analyzed and agreements sought if the first scales are not satisfactory.

Among those now under consideration is that of the newspaper publishers, presented by a committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, headed by Howard Davis, of New York. Johnson called this directly to his desk today for study.

In expressing his views on some objections to it before a formal study, the administrator gave no indication whether he would accept the new code or send it back to the committee, or return it as he had done several times before.

Supplementing the endeavor of the recovery administration meanwhile, the agricultural adjustment administration received a code of fair practices from representatives of the grain exchanges.

The proposed minimum wages and maximum hours which will be studied by Johnson as well as George N. Peek, chief farm administrator, who is particularly interested in its rules for government of the exchanges.

Aluminum Complaint. The first complaint against alleged abuses in connection with the national aluminum industry was filed by three independent manufacturers of aluminum products.

The companies, the Bausch Machine Tool Company, of Springfield, Mass.; the Aluminum Products Company, of LaGrange, Ill.; and the Sheet Aluminum Corporation of Jackson, Mich., charged that "unless the Aluminum Company of America is compelled to desist from the abuses herein complained of, the complainants will find it difficult if not impossible to continue to perform their obligations under their agreement with the president to raise wages and to create employment."

They said the Aluminum Company of America was unfair in competitive practices by "selling products in competition with the complainants for less than the sum of the market value of the aluminum

Judge Also Hints He May Throw Out Action of Perry and Felton.

Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, in Fulton superior court Wednesday, indicated that he may throw out the attempt of suspended members of the Georgia public service commission to obtain a court review of the investigation conducted by Governor Eugene Talmadge and the governor's order suspending the commissioners.

The indication came when Judge Pomeroy refused to sanction the filing of a certiorari in behalf of Albert W. Woodruff, of Decatur, a suspended commissioner, and called upon attor-

Man Owning 1st Floor Razes Two, Sees Judge

OKLAHOMA CITY, Aug. 9.—(AP) The Oklahoma criminal court of appeals was called upon today to decide a question equal to that of how owners may divide a cow.

Terrell Lewis appealed from a $300 fine imposed on a charge of malicious mischief for razing a two-story building, the second floor of which was claimed by a fraternal order. Lewis claimed the right to destroy the structure because he owned the first story.

neys for James A. Perry, suspended commission chairman, and Jule W. Felton, suspended commissioner, to show cause why the sanction of their certiorari should not be rescinded.

The judge indicated that his study of legal authorities inclined him to the opinion that the applications of the suspended commissioners are without proper status in court.

It is known that regardless of the court's action the governor does not intend to answer the certiorari and the law provides that a court may rule on the answer but not on the writ. If the governor fails to answer, his attorneys say Judge Pomeroy will have nothing on which to act and the former commissioners could not file a mandamus forcing decision, as mandamus against the governor is prohibited by law.

Approval of the code is expected momentarily. Mr. Sherrill added, and as soon as this is received the restaurants will adopt it wholeheartedly.

With Ed Venable, of Atlanta, Mr. Sherrill represented the southern owners in Washington a week ago when the National Restaurant Association presented its code.

"The only hitch from our standpoint is in the hours prescribed by General Johnson," said Mr. Sherrill. "Some restaurants can comply readily, but those which work on 18-hour and 24-hour shifts could not do business under the general code."

"There is no argument over wages and additional employees, and we believe General Johnson will appreciate our situation. We decided to wait until this is finally worked out before displaying our insignia."

BODY NAMED TO PROBE POLICE BOOK METHODS

Mayor James L. Key Wednesday appointed a committee of five council members to investigate charges of irregularities in obtaining advertising for the police annual and still held on his desk a council ordinance creating a separate board of trustees to manage the Albert Steiner cancer ward.

Both measures were passed to him from Monday's meeting of council.

Following are members of the investigating committee: Aubrey Milam, chairman; George B. Lyle, John A. White, Horace M. Rantin and Max M. Cuba.

Key said Wednesday he probably would not act on the Steiner measure before Friday. It is anticipated that he will veto it, but he still failed Wednesday to commit himself to any course of action.

A veto would be the signal for another council battle over management of the ward, and would result in a bitter oral battle.

Council authorized the inquisitorial committee after it was said that advertising was obtained through intimidation and that police courtesy cards were exchanged for contributions to the police fund.

The mayor in making his selections said the committee was named to "conduct a fair and impartial hearing of the matters and things set forth in the resolution."

Milam is out of the city and probably will not return before next Monday. It is expected that hearings will be arranged soon after he returns.

Jail Repairs Ordered After Escape Attempt

Thwarting of a second wholesale escape from the Fulton county jail because of a faulty roof Wednesday led Commissioner George P. Longino, chairman of the committee in charge of repairs, to order repairs to strengthen the structure.

Julius Holland made the request, and work will be started immediately to make the prison safe pending outcome of negotiations for a new joint city and county jail.

Several weeks ago 21 prisoners escaped through the roof of the building and shortly after midnight Tuesday night another hole was discovered in the roof. Thirty misdeed prisoners were so locked in that the latest hole would have been a means of exit from incarceration.

No one escaped, however, because of the alertness of guards.

ATLANTANS INTRIGUED BY BICYCLING FAD

Bicycling, revived in Hollywood by screen stars, has spread all through the west and east, and is now a popular diversion of Atlantans, according to Berry Cohen, friend of Bobby Walthour, and veteran bicycle dealer.

Mr. Cohen announced on Wednesday that he had opened a place at Piedmont avenue and Boulevard, in Morningside, where he was renting bicycles by the hour to men, women and children. The place opens early and stays open until 10:30 o'clock.

Mr. Cohen says that grown-ups are riding out in their automobiles, parking them and renting bicycles for a spin of an hour or two in the neighborhood. Others, he said, find bicycling a fine exercise early in the morning.

CAMP AND LINDLEY FAMILIES TO MEET

The annual reunion of the Camp-Lindley families, whose first reunion was in 1895, will be held at the large pavilion at Grant park Sunday.

The first modern reunion of the families was in 1917, when 700 people attended.

Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and important business discussed. A musical program, including a quartet and band, has been planned. Lawrence Camp and Judge John E. Hutcheson, of the Stone Mountain circuit, will speak. More than 300 are expected to attend, among them Mrs. Elizabeth Camp Brock, the oldest living member of the family in line of descent.

INSTALLMENT XXXII.

Why—his father was a millionaire! All the doctors and hospitals in the world could be placed at her command. A great wave of joy swept over his heavy heart. Mother might walk again! All the things he had wanted to do for her might come true—through his father.

Suddenly Tommy got up and walked through the hallway that led to Dr. Sawyer's door. He knocked softly. "Come in," the old man called. He wondered at the almost radiant smile that touched Tommy's face.

"I—you don't need to worry about me, Doc. I thought I'd tell you before you went to bed. I—I've been thinkin' it over. I'd like to see my father in the morning—early."

As soon as visitors were permitted the three Virginians appeared at the hospital the next morning.

"You'd better go and visit your girl friend, Freckle, while I kind of look after Tommy here," Dr. Sawyer told his daughter, sending her along with an encouraging little pat on the shoulder.

At Curt's door Dr. Sawyer hesitated. "You—better sit out here a spell, son, and let me go in first and see your dad. I'd kind of like to prepare him for the shock of seeing you."

Tommy wet his lips nervously. "That'd be a good idea—Doc."

The doctor knocked softly on the door. When Miss Hanvin appeared she smiled and turned to her patient: "It's your old friend—Dr. Sawyer."

Tom Smith Sr. sought the face of his erstwhile enemy for a sign of good news. The doctor smiled brightly: "How are you feeling this morning—Tom, or Curt?"

Miss Hanvin answered for the patient.

"We can't go worryin' about our own feelings—father. We must think of—my mother."

The sick man nodded in agonized silence.

Suddenly Tommy leaned over to bury his face in the sheets of his father's bed and cried boyishly:

"If you give mother back her health—and I can see her walk I—I'll spend the rest of my life helping to make up to you for the years you've been alone."

Curt breathed through the ache that stabbed his broken heart like a knife: "As long as I live—I'll live for her, my son. I promise. If any power on earth can make her well—we'll find it."

Several weeks later on a cool end-of-August evening Tommy and Mary sat huddled closely together on a bench in a little garden on the Curt Little estate.

Mary giggled suddenly and gave Tommy a quick little kiss on the ear. "Wouldn't there be a riot around here if Daddy and your father found out we had slipped away and gotten married a whole week ago?"

Tommy swooped Mary into his lap. "You're an old married woman. Do you realize that?"

"I do—my venerable spouse. But it would be a terrible disappointment to mother and dad if we didn't get married at home—with we wearing a veil—everything. We'll just have to go through with another ceremony."

Tommy snorted.

"I hope I can keep a straight face." A little later he said with awe:

"Mary—we're rich. Do you realize that? We'll never need to worry a bit about money as long as we live." He looked down at his new suit, one of several made by the best tailor in Los Angeles. "And take a look at me! Why, I've never had but one cheap old suit at a time in my life before."

"There are more important things," Mary said with a new wisdom, "than having everything you want, Tommy—I mean all the clothes you want."

"Them strange words comin' from you, lady. After the clothes—honey you've always been."

Mary looked hurt and Tommy held her to him with a rush of tenderness.

"That wasn't fair, honey—after all you've been through since you came to Hollywood."

"I deserve it," Mary admitted lifting a serious little face to her husband. "But—Tommy, I feel a thousand years older than I did a few weeks ago. I'm getting a little horse sense—really I am."

Tom Smith Sr. and Dr. Sawyer sat on a balcony of the great house that same evening playing chess. Suddenly the younger man looked up and smiled crookedly:

"Well, Doc—time does change things. Here we are sitting playing together like two old cronies. I never thought to see this day."

The old Virginian sat back in his chair and looked over his glasses with a twinkle in his gray eyes.

"They do say that truth is stranger than fiction, Tom."

The movie producer passed his hands over his eyes.

LOAN AUTHORIZED FOR U. S. COTTON

Fund To Be Used To Pay Farm Credit Body for Option Staple.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(P)—The board of directors of the Reconstruction Corporation today authorized a loan of $3,500,000 at 2 1/2 per cent to the secretary of agriculture to be used for the purchase of cotton held by government agencies.

The funds will be used, if they are needed, to pay the farm credit administration for approximately 2,100,000 bales of cotton it agreed to deliver to the farm adjustment administration at 6 cents a pound.

The cotton, owned or controlled by the government, will be used to fulfill options to southern cotton growers who joined in the cotton reduction campaign.

Approximately 60 per cent of the growers signed contracts under which they received from $8 of $12 an acre, and also options on government cotton at 6 cents a pound in an amount approximately equal to that which would have been produced on the land they plowed under.

Cricket Hordes Feed

On Montana Snakes

RED LODGE, Mont., Aug. 9.—(P)—Cricket, large and carnivorous, are swarming in increasing hordes in the Pryor region of southeastern Montana.

Dave Good, a ranch foreman, told today of crickets descending on the carcasses of two head of cattle and devouring all but the hides and bones.

Others relate they have witnessed attacks by the large, snapping insects on live rattlesnakes, the latter having been killed and eaten piecemeal.

PERRY SAYS REMOVAL WAS 'POLITICAL' MOVE

Former Board Chairman States He Will Present Commission's Case.

James A. Perry, suspended chairman of the Georgia public service commission, Wednesday issued a statement in which he revealed that he will present a complete survey of the situation growing out of the suspension of the old board, asserting that Governor Talmadge, who suspended him and his fellow commissioners "is not interested in reducing rates."

The suspended official said that the action of the governor was "wholly political." His statement follows: "The public will find that Governor Talmadge is not interested in reducing rates. In next Sunday's daily papers I will present facts that will convince any impartial mind that his action in setting aside a great amount of hard work, covering a period of many months, of the old commission, and still the only legal authority to revise rates in Georgia, is wholly political. Indeed, a large section of Georgia citizens is now without reduced rates for electric current, because of his meddling interference in our work. He deliberately crippled, if he has not destroyed, a very valuable railroad rate reduction ordered by the old commission, which was under review in the courts, aggressively defended by the old commission, on the very day he was forming a conspiracy to destroy our commission and its work."

Nothing his present political set-up may do will stand legal review, he knows it, and even his political appointees ought to know it. I would not intentionally offend any member of "Talmadge's commission." It is common knowledge that of the entire personnel of "his commission," not a one has the slightest knowledge of the duties involving upon a public service commission. It is, therefore, obvious to any one that it will be a long time before this "hand-picked commission" can make any pretense of being qualified for the highly technical duties necessary to an intelligent, conscientious discharge of duty. Accordingly, it follows that Talmadge has deliberately destroyed a department that has for years been doing excellent work, and the very things that Talmadge is telling the public he is exceedingly anxious to have done, viz., reduce rates, with special reference to the rural sections of this state—has been done by the old commission for a long number of years, and to destroy that overvalued and even shocked Talmadge and his co-conspirators, during the joke of a trial of the old commission.

This political set-up has run in a large number of employees, covering various titles, practically doubling the cost of a former efficient rate department, and not one has any right to claim any knowledge, generally speaking, concerning rates applying for the different utilities under the jurisdiction of the commission. Governor Talmadge just as well understand now that the public is not going to accept his shill, "the courts" enjoin the rates I ordered my political board to put into effect."

The public will find in next Sunday's dailies an exposition of the political bunk Governor Talmadge has been plying off on an unsuspecting public in matters of rates for several years.

Any impartial mind will hold Governor Talmadge fully responsible for all of the damage his political maneuvering, and it is nothing less, is costing the state. This will be shown by me in next Sunday's dailies. JAMES A. PERRY.

Blister Pained and Hurt So Could Not Rest. Cuticura Healed.

"My trouble began on my little finger and spread to my hand. First my finger was red and burned, and then broke out in little pimples that itched so I could not sleep. When I put my hand in water the itching was so severe that I would have to rub it, and then blisters formed. When the blisters broke they pained and hurt so that I could not rest. The trouble lasted about three years."

"I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in about three months I was completely healed, after using two boxes of Ointment and one cake of Soap." (Signed) Mrs. Flora Bennett, Ringling, Okla.

TOKYO IS ATTACKED, ONE GIRL KILLED IN SHAM WARFARE

TOKYO, Aug. 9.—(AP)—Fifteen million people in Tokyo and surrounding prefectures tasted war-time life today as a three-day sham battle for possession of the capital was launched by the army and the navy.

Three times during the day "enemy" airplanes roared overhead and sirens screamed warnings to the populace. Smoke bombs and vari-colored vapors were loosed in the streets, simulating poison gas and incendiary explosives. Emergency hospitals were set up and to them stretcher-bearers wearing gas masks carried the supposed wounded, while from public parks and the roofs of big department stores anti-aircraft guns and machine guns boomed and chattered.

There was one genuine casualty. A girl watching one of the air raids from a roof fell and was killed.

The assumption was that the air raiders came from enemy battleships approaching Tokyo bay from the mid-Pacific. The whole show forms the second phase of the grand maneuvers of the navy.

ELLIJAY, Ga., Aug. 9.—(AP)—R. W. Randall, of White Path, Ga., and Scott Myers, Fla., was in jail here tonight on a warrant charging murder of his wife.

Sheriff W. E. Rackley, of Gilmer county, said Randall was taken in custody Monday after a man he said was Scott Myers, of Madison, Fla., had sworn out the warrant charging murder. Randall was arrested at his residence at White Path and refused to make any comment on the charges.

Several days ago the Randall automobile turned over on a mountainside near White Path and reports to county officers then were that Mrs. Randall was killed in the accident. Her husband then said the death was accidental.

Sheriff Rackley said Randall's trial would begin August 19.

Randall is being held without bond, Scott said. He added he had not been advised of the date for the preliminary hearing.

At the time of the accident, July 29, Scott said, Mrs. Randall's relatives at Madison were not satisfied with the report made to police by the husband, who was said to have been slightly injured. Randall said his wife lost her life when a road shoulder caved in and overturned their car.

Mrs. Randall was the former Ruby Drew, of Madison. Scott said the family is prominent in several parts of the state. Scott said the Randalls have three children, a boy 16, a girl 13 and a boy 8.

Fair Visitors Greeted On Return to Barwick

THOMASVILLE, Ga., Aug. 9.—Tuesday, August 8, is a day that will long be remembered by the citizens of Barwick, prosperous farming community of 1,000 people, which lies partly in Thomas and partly in Brooks counties, and centrally located 16 miles from Thomasville, Quitman and Moultrie.

Tuesday was the occasion for a great homecoming celebration arranged for the purpose of welcoming home 26 sons and daughters of the community, who, because of a profitable watermelon crop this year in the community, found it possible to make a trip to the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago, parts of 23 states, the District of Columbia and the Dominion of Canada.

The Herald, of which Joe Lawrence, 75, farmer, cattle raiser and prominent churchman, is editor, and A. W. Starling, advertising manager, has long been noted for its promotional work in behalf of the agricultural interests of the section. Both editorially and its news columns it has espoused the cause of diversified farming.

"We doubt if there is a like county area in Georgia that will have during the month of August as great purchasing power as the area covered by Barwick county and the adjacent counties in which the Nashville Herald circulates," the paper declares editorially, and at the same time announces other special editions to be issued during the tobacco season.

To Mr. Lawrence's younger assistant, Mr. Starling, fell the responsibility of arranging the mass of advertising and much of the news copy for the special edition, which sounds a brand-new note of optimism and economic recovery in keeping with President Roosevelt's NRA program. Hundreds of sample copies were mailed to all sections of the county.

This year's tobacco crop, estimated at 60,000,000 pounds and worth approximately $8,000,000, has started a flow of money through the section, stimulating great activity in all lines of trade.

TURNER LOSES APPEAL ON THOMPSON CUP RACE. WASHINGTON, Aug. 9.—(AP)—The contest committee of the National Aeronautical Association today sustained the decision which took from Pilot Roscoe Turner the $3,750 Thompson trophy of the Los Angeles air race on July 4.

William C. MacCracken, chairman of the contest committee, said however, the committee was of the opinion that Turner had not been guilty of unsportsmanlike conduct, that he had made his appeal from the decision of the Los Angeles committee in good faith, and not for the purpose of delay, and that therefore, was returning to him his appeal fee.

Captain John D. Carmody, counsel for Turner, announced that his client would carry his protest on to the Federation Aeronautique Internationale in Paris.

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

BY CAROLINE CHATFIELD

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence invited. Your name held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

My husband has been very unfortunate in his business and we have been forced to move out of our home in a nice neighborhood and move into a section that is respectable, but poor and unattractive. We are faced with quite a problem in settling the children's education with the neighbors' children. When we lived in our own home we were surrounded by people of our own class and the children naturally played with the children next door on either side of us. Here it is quite different. The neighbors are not educated and while their children will be graduates of the public schools the tone of the community is distinctly uncultural. We don't want to instill any false ideas into the children about social snobism nor do we want them acquainted with any "hot" ideas. What is the best course for us to follow?

MRS. T. T.

ANSWER:

In this situation lies the glory of our America. Our aristocracy, which is unquestionably founded on money, disintegrates when the money disappears and the fragments fall, with leveling influence, on all who are near by. A family such as this one loses its fortune and must move out of the select neighborhood where it has been housed into a neighborhood of few privileges and opportunities. The whole neighborhood profits by the misfortune that has befallen the reduced family.

Gentility, or fine feeling, which ever you may find it to be found in the most unexpected places. A public school teacher, speaking of this fact, likened the discovery of delicacy and good taste in the underprivileged child to finding the fragrant arbutus blossom under the leaves, on a cold snowy day. The whole problem is solved by selection. No doubt the new neighborhood can furnish any sort of companionship for your children; and with careful selection the children need never know that there has been a problem. A large number of prominent men, and business men as well, come out of homes and neighborhoods that won't pass society's muster. Clergymen, particularly, are bred in homes of poverty and misery and the thing that makes them succeed, if they do, is inherent capacity for "catching on." There may be no books in their own homes, and even they get access to a living room or a library where there is a bookcase filled with romance and history and beauty they are fired with ambition to read the books and see what is in all about. Once they embark on the great adventure nothing can turn them back.

I cannot forget the story of one town that was touched with a coal from an unfortunate family's fire. Financial disaster overtook a man, as you say it has overtaken you. He was forced to move his family to a neighborhood such as you describe. Being out of work and having a passion for learning and for teaching, he set about to correct the features of the neighborhood that made it an uncongenial neighborhood for his family. He did it with the aid of his library and the knowledge and culture he had gleaned from it. He touched several of the quietest of the town and set them on the path of successful careers. He changed the whole tone of his town.

He could have sat back and grieved about the compromise of his social position. He could have separated his children from the neighbors' children on the ground that they were not his equals. Instead he made them his equals and many a community has reaped the reward of his unselfish labor.

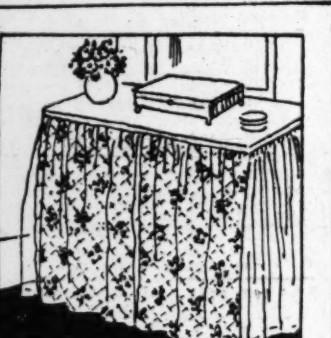

Character and brains are the commodities that count and if a child grows up with a fit companion for anybody's child. The little exercises such as blowing his nose on the ground instead of on a handkerchief, setting his muddy feet on the rug, boots into the house, and so on, are not the keys to his capacity or his character; they are simply the result of his having had no opportunity. When a child forms ties with children who taboo such things he will soon learn to taboo them.

So you see the reduced family is the child of adversity, and the children in terms of education, not in terms of money. If this family prizes learning they will make it known and the children who come into the home will note the emphasis and note, too, the difference between the home where there are books and music and their own homes where there is intellectual poverty. It is a fine opportunity to do a piece of missionary work for education and in the doing of it there is opportunity for the givers and the receivers.

NANCY PAGE

Quilted Petticoat Material Makes Table Petticoats Too
BY FLORENCE LA GANKE.

Nancy visited a friend while she was in Chicago. Dorothy had moved most of her house in French provincial style. That night Dorothy used for much of the furniture. It meant cotton fabrics for hangings in many rooms. The furniture was easy and comfortable with graceful lines and much charm.

A dressing table in the guest room interested Nancy greatly. The front of the dressing skirt was made from a cotton quilted material similar to that used for the old-time quilted petticoats which the Britons wore. Nancy had seen this material used before but never in quite this fashion. Previously it had been stretched plain and almost taut around the front and back of a dressing table. An inverted box pleat at the corners had given the necessary fullness.

But in this scheme the material was gathered slightly across the front. And then at the sides Dorothy had used a silky soft material which was gathered very full. It was in yellow, the predominating color in the quilted material, and also in the room.

This combination appeared again at the window with the valance of the quilted material and the curtains of a sheer yellow silky material.

The valance at the window was really a cornice and had been made by covering the wooden cornice box with padding and with the quilted material. This quilted material may be purchased by the yard in some large shops, or it may be made at home by using a quilted pattern, an interlining of batting, and wadding and then a backing of a plain material. The quilting may be done by machine, or by hand.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

A Howell Top

BY ELY CULBERTSON,
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst.

Obviously when a Declarer makes four no-trump on a hand in a Duplicate game on which every other player either only makes three or goes down one, he richly deserves the top score which he most surely gets. The Declarer on the South hand below deserved all the more credit for his very fine result because the best possible Opening lead was made against him.

South, Dealer.
East-West vulnerable.
♠ A 3 2
♥ J 7 6 5
♦ K J 8 3
♣ J 6

♠ 8 8 4 ♠ K J 7 5
♥ 9 8 5 ♥ 10 4 3
♦ 9 ♦ Q 6 5
♣ A K 8 4 ♣ 7 3 2

The bidding:
South West North East
1NT Pass 2♦ Pass
2NT Pass 3NT Pass
Pass

No comment need be made on the bidding—the final declaration of three no-trump is the correct one for the hand.

West's Opening lead was his fourth best club—the 8-spot. For the purpose of concealing his own weak club holding Declarer went up with the Knave in Dummy, which card held the trick. At this point Declarer saw that he might have difficulty in making overtricks but even in fulfilling the contract. He also realized that since the game was being scored on a match-point basis, the making of overtricks was almost as important as fulfilling the contract.

Even to make three-odd it was obvious that no diamond trick could be lost. To trick 2 South led the diamond King from Dummy and followed with a low diamond. The only knowledge of the hand that he had up to this point was the fact that West held at least five clubs.

Declarer's plan was to lead the East hand held four clubs he would have played a higher card than the deuce on the first trick. The fact that West had two more clubs than East was controlling one and caused Declarer to finesse for the Queen of diamonds rather than play for the drop. In addition there was the possibility that even if the diamond finesse went wrong and West won the trick, he might conceivably not continue with clubs; whereas if a diamond trick must be lost to the East hand, a club continuation through Declarer would naturally ensue.

With a great deal of relief South saw his Ten hold the trick. He now knew that his game contract was secured. However, he saw considerable hope for making overtricks if the West hand held either the spade King or the heart Queen. Accordingly, South now immediately ran the diamond suit. The West player had to find four discards and all four times to discard spades. Since West was a very skillful and deceptive player these spade discards did not indicate that West held a spade honor—as a matter of fact, Declarer's first impression was that West held the spade King and was blanking it as quickly as possible to avoid an impending end-play. A slight bit of thought, however, told South that this could not be the case, as if West originally held five spades to the King in addition to five clubs to the Ace-King he must certainly would have overcalled one diamond with a bid of one spade, and that West, in addition to holding on to his good clubs, must be guarding something in hearts.

Declarer's line of play from this point on was simple. After running his five diamond tricks, he led his Ten of spades, and when West discarded a club, his suspicions were confirmed. The Ace of spades in Dummy won this trick and a low heart was returned. Declarer winning in his own hand, he now led his Queen of clubs and the West player was completely trapped. All he could do was to cash his clubs and then, at the twelfth trick, lead away from his hand, and South quickly put up the Knave from Dummy and won the last trick with the Ace in his own hand; and the 440 points he scored for bidding three no-trump and making four got him a clear-cut top-score. As a matter of fact, making three would have been above average considering the Opening lead being made, and the finesse in the diamond finesse, and with a club Opening, if this finesse is not taken the contract must be defeated one trick. Even with some other Opening, three-odd is the maximum that can be made once a diamond trick is lost.

41 RAILROADS CITED FOR RATE HEARINGS

The Georgia public service commission Wednesday issued two rules nisi to the 41 railroads operating in Georgia calling upon them to show cause why rates on live stock and canned goods should not be reduced.

The roads must answer on live stock rates on September 19 and on canned goods September 21.

Chairman J. P. Wilhoit, in announcing the citations, said that the railroads were asked to show cause why they should not be reduced under lowered emergency rates between a number of points in Georgia, these rates having been granted by the old service years ago in order that the carriers might meet bus competition. The emergency rates have run out, he said, and the commission is calling the roads to show cause why the reduced rates should not be made permanent.

September is expected to be a busy month for the commission, which has cited the telephone companies to show cause why their rates should not be reduced and the railroads to show cause why rates on cotton and cotton products should not be slashed. These hearings are set for September 5 and 12.
